HOPECORE

Gardens That Can Save the World is an insightful new book by RHS Chelsea award-winning garden designer Lottie Delamain. It looks at 65 projects which demonstrate how our use of green spaces can repair and nourish the wider environment. It also highlights pioneering experts in the field, as well as providing a glossary of plants and techniques for readers to trial in their own gardens. Dive in and get inspired. £30. thamesandhudson.com

GARDEN PARTY

Charles and Ray Eames knew what they were doing when they made the Wire Chair. It's a design classic, originally made from welded steel and now available in a wide variety of styles and colours. Our favourite addition is the brilliantly named Bikini: a fetching, hourglass-shaped pad which stretches over the seat and back cover (pictured directly below). This removable accessory will further elongate the lifespan of these fine chairs and add a smidge of comfort. Wire Chair DKR, from £470. Bikini Outdoor (cover), from £240. vitra.com

LIGHT WORK

Glazed walls are a great option for anyone looking to bring the outdoors in. Shown here is a bespoke example by Architectural Bronze that uses Thermabronze screens and space-saving slim doors. £POA. bronzecasements.com
